Idgah Lake Idgah Lake is a lake in Cook Inlet, Alaska, in the United States. It is formed by a glacier dam that blocks the East Fork of Eklutna River from flowing out of the valley. The lake covers an area of less than, and is the second-largest lake in Cook Inlet. It has a maximum depth of . It is primarily fed by groundwater. The lake is a major spawning area for the sockeye salmon and steelhead trout (Oncorhynchus nerka), which are a major source of food for the local Native village of Eklutna. During the salmon run of the Kenai Peninsula, the area attracts between 50,000 and 60,000 people each year. Fish species The primary species in the lake include the Chinook salmon (Oncorhynchus tshawytscha), chum salmon (O. keta), and sockeye salmon (O. nerka). Smaller numbers of kokanee (O. goshawk), king (O. woodwardi) and Dolly Varden (Salvelinus malma) also inhabit the lake. However, the majority of fish are migratory fish that come in from rivers. Although the river species are usually counted towards the total number of salmon caught in Cook Inlet, the lake represents an important migratory stepping stone for the sockeye salmon and steelhead trout. During the autumn salmon runs, the lake can be full of sockeye salmon, with fish spawning just above the sea floor. A fish ladder at the lake is the only passage for the migrating fish to get to

Q: Power Builder and SQL Server Index types I'm not so good in the languages (specially the SQL), but I just have a question about indexes. I'm building a report that will use a query like this: `SELECT [Buildings].[BuildingID], [Buildings].[Name] FROM [Buildings] WHERE [Buildings].[BuildingID] = '1' AND [Buildings].[BuildingID] = '2'` However, as it's a query from a report (as it will be edited by the user), sometimes the user will put a BuildingID that will not exist (that's why it will throw me an error). I'm trying to build an index on the [BuildingID], but using the exact same syntax as the query: `SELECT [Buildings].[BuildingID], [Buildings].[Name] FROM [Buildings] WHERE [Buildings].[BuildingID] = '1' AND [Buildings].[BuildingID] = '2'` However, it appears that when I do it with the index, it will also show me the BUIDKID's that does not exist. So, how can I do this? And what is the difference between doing it as a query and doing it with an index? Thanks A: You shouldn't put a condition such as `[Buildings].[BuildingID] = '1'` in your Index definition. If you would put this condition in your Select statement, than both BuildingID's would be included and in your case, it is not what you want. Instead, you should add the column to the Index definition.
