The fantasy action RPG Elden Ring is the second official game developed by Obsidian Entertainment, a studio with a track record of making games with the utmost quality. The game was launched in April of 2015 on several platforms including PC and is now available on the PS4 and Xbox One. The game also has a free version that can be played online. # # #Two members of an operation that tried to sell a stolen $270,000 painting to a Renaissance festival in Canada were sentenced Thursday to a total of almost six years in prison for forging signatures and selling a fake art piece. A judge said the men were ordered to serve between three and four years behind bars for forgery of a judge's signature and to serve the rest of the sentence after they are released. Earlier this year, a Canadian man bought a painting by painter Claude Monet for more than $270,000 at a Toronto art auction. It was brought to a restaurant in Hamilton, Ont., where the owner sold it to Chris Scarola. Scarola, a former New York City police officer, said he believed it was a Jean-Léon Gérôme masterpiece, but a certificate of authenticity from Christie's in New York showed it was by the French artist. The certificate of authenticity that was included with the sale. (CBC) Scarola said he was part of a group that came to the Hamilton restaurant and tried to buy the fake painting. In March, the company he worked for at the time was convicted in a U.S. court for its role in the scheme. Chrissy and Chris Scarola were given a certificate of authenticity for a painting worth thousands of dollars. They believed the painting was a Jean-Leon Gereme masterpiece. (Family photo) According to a Canadian news story, the three men were charged in February after a judge saw a Facebook photo of the fake painting and ordered the men to turn themselves in. Scarola told CBC News he never got the certificate of authenticity and never had a chance to look at the painting. Chrissy Scarola, Chris' brother, faces a sentence of four and half years, while his older brother Raymond Scarola faces three and half years. The three men will be released in 10 years. Jan. 25: Fake art piece sold for almost $270,000 at Ontario auction In January, the three men appeared in court in Hamilton and pleaded guilty to fraud over $5,

Praise Ye the Lord Praise Ye the Lord is a church hymn written around 1680 by Mary Rowlandson. Its author and date of composition are unknown. Unlike many such compositions, this one was not translated into Gaelic by a Highland adherent of the True Scots Kirk. The words were originally set to a Gaelic tune on the present final hymnal to be used in the United Methodist Church. A live hymnal is available to order for use with the live display project, Global Harmony. The hymn has a refrain that supports the song by "Praising all the Lord with" The text, in an English translation by Gene M. Moore, is as follows: However, one can only see the general nature of the translation if no one else begins. References External links Early Methodist Hymnals
